

Editorial

It gives me great pleasure to present the July–December 2025 Volume 2, Issue 2 of the *Journal of Medical & Dental Frontiers (JMDF). This edition reflects our continued commitment to advancing interdisciplinary knowledge, fostering evidence-based practice, and supporting a culture of inquiry among medical and dental professionals.

The second half of 2025 has been marked by rapid developments in clinical innovations, digital transformation, and patient-centred care. Our featured section on Digital era offers valuable insights into adoption patterns, clinical efficacy, and the challenges practitioners face while integrating new technologies into everyday practice. To improve the long-term accessibility and stability of our published content, the journal has begun assigning Persistent Uniform Resource Locators (PURLs) to all articles. A PURL provides a permanent and reliable link that will always direct readers to the correct version of an article, even if the webpage location changes in the future. By implementing PURLs, we aim to strengthen citation accuracy, support long-term preservation, and ensure that our research remains easily discoverable and accessible to readers worldwide.

We remain deeply grateful to our authors for their scientific contributions, to our reviewers for their rigorous evaluations, and to our readers for their continued trust and engagement. Your dedication ensures that JMDF remains a platform of scholarly integrity and clinical relevance. As we look ahead, we reaffirm our mission to encourage high-quality research, promote academic collaboration, and support the professional growth of the healthcare community. We hope this issue inspires new ideas, strengthens clinical practice, and sparks meaningful dialogue across disciplines. Thank you for being part of the JMDF community.

Wishing you an insightful and enriching reading experience.

Dr Preeti Kale

Editor-in-Chief

Journal of Medical and Dental Frontiers

